How AI Search Opened the Door to a €200,000 Competitive Tender

Maximum Image supplies workwear, corporate clothing and promotional merchandise to business customers.

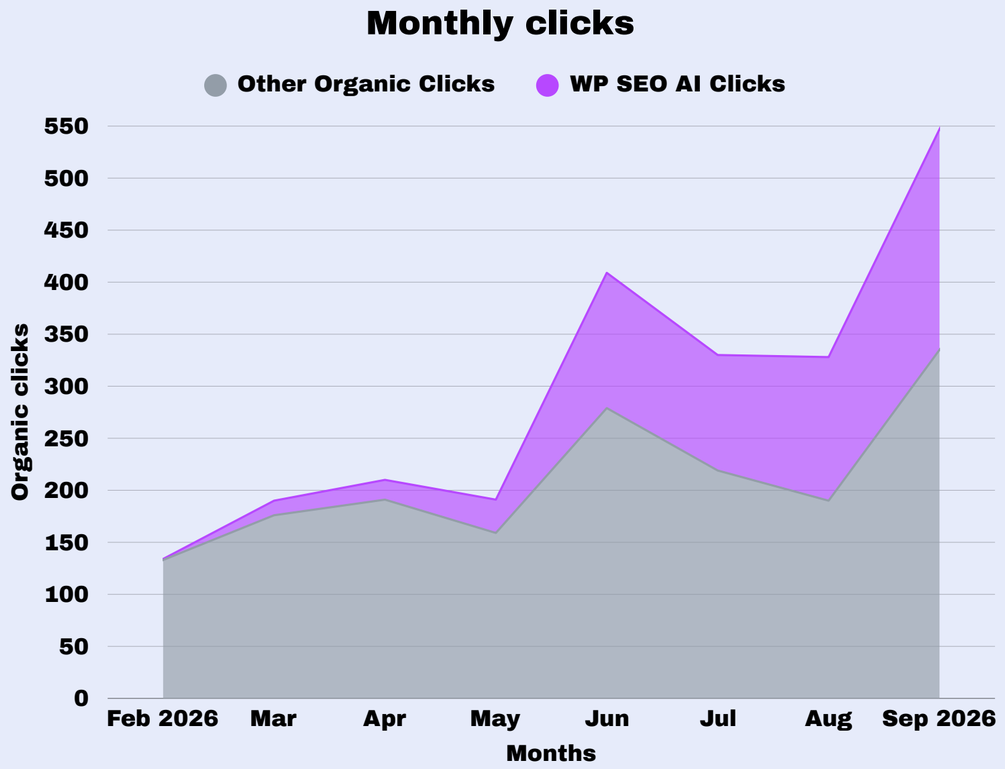

A retail buyer searching for suppliers encountered Maximum Image through AI-assisted research, then visited its website and invited the company into a competitive tender.

What followed was a demanding sales process involving discussions, pricing and product samples. Maximum Image won the contract, valued at approximately €200,000.

“Being mentioned by an AI assistant opened the door for us. We still had to win the tender ourselves, but without that initial recommendation, we might never have had the opportunity.”

Challenge - Being Discovered

Enterprise buyers often start with research long before speaking to a supplier. Maximum Image needed to appear during that discovery stage, alongside established competitors.

Its previous SEO activity was inconsistent, leaving valuable buyer questions about workwear, branding and supplier selection insufficiently covered.

WP SEO AI's - Approach

WP SEO AI focused content on commercial buying questions: types of workwear, customization, prices and product selection. Answer-first content and technical SEO improvements supported discoverability in traditional and AI-assisted search.

For the retail opportunity, the website helped the buyer assess Maximum Image. The company then earned its place in the tender through its own capabilities and proposal.

Customer Journey - From AI Search to €200K

- 1. Discovery: A key account buyer researched workwear suppliers using online search and an AI assistant. Maximum Image appeared among the options.
- 2. Evaluation: The buyer visited Maximum Image's website and assessed its products, services and suitability.
- 3. Shortlisting: Maximum Image was invited to a competitive tender alongside other suppliers.
- 4. Tender to win: After meetings, pricing discussions and sample production over roughly 2–3 months, Maximum Image won an approximately €200K contract.

A supplied AI search example lists Maximum Image among workwear suppliers, illustrating its visibility during early-stage supplier research.

The value of this visibility is the opportunity to enter consideration before a buyer makes direct contact. Winning the contract still depends on a strong commercial proposal.
